

IMMERSION CENTRAL AUSTRALIA

Immersion is an invitation to view the world in a radically different way – from the heart and hearth of the other.

In 2005 twelve students traveled to uluru to experience life with the traditional anangu aboriginal people. this was the first aboriginal immersion experience for students at santa sabina college.

On this journey, the students and teachers talked about reconciliation and aboriginal rights and learnt about songline, the traditional stories of the anangu land, their beliefs and history.

The group visited the amata community where the anangu aboriginal people live and uluru.

“It was a journey of a lifetime, and no one who went on it came back unchanged. it was our little difference, an adventure for our lives.”

Quote from a traveller on the journey.
